It was decided that the uncovered remains should be removed from the area as soon as possible, and coordinated excavation survey coordinates should be submitted to the Antalya Cultural Assets Protection Regional Board of the Ministry of Culture and Tourism. During this period, no construction activities should take place on the parcels.

3.6 Information on Building Licenses, Renovation Licenses and Building Occupancy Permits Obtained for Real Estate and Real Estate Projects

During the inspections conducted at the Antalya Metropolitan Municipality, it was learned that preliminary permission agreements were signed on 29.11.2017 for the said parcels, granting easement rights to Kabataş Real Estate Investment Construction Tourism Industry and Trade Inc. - Rönesans Real Estate Investment Inc. Partnership.

During the inspections conducted at the Antalya Metropolitan Municipality on 04.07.2024, it was communicated to us by the customer that, in accordance with the decision taken by the Antalya Metropolitan Municipality Council on 15.11.2018 numbered 1632, the preliminary permission period has been extended by 1 year. As part of the valuation work, assuming that the said extension continues in accordance with Article 39 of the easement agreement, the valuation has been conducted

The translation of the specified paragraph from the Easement Agreement Specification, Article 39 is as follows:

"In case the Administration fails to fulfill its obligations related to the performance of the contract as stipulated in the contract and in the General Conditions of Construction Works without fault of the right holder (such as approval of projects, approval of work schedule, imposition of construction ban), and as a result, delays occur for which the responsibility does not belong to the right holder, and this situation obstructs the fulfillment of the commitment and the right holder is unable to eliminate this obstacle due to lack of capability; in accordance with the obstructive causes and the nature of the work to be done, the period for the whole or part of the work shall be extended for at least the duration of the delay."

An Advance Permission Agreement was signed between the Administration and the General Partnership on 29.11.2017. After obtaining the construction permit within the framework of the Easement Agreement Specification and Advance Permission Agreement, construction began. Subsequently, on 08.06.2018, with the file number 2018/536 E. of Antalya 4th Administrative Court, a lawsuit was filed against the Antalya Governorship for the annulment of the decision stating "Environmental Impact Assessment is not Required" and the suspension of its execution. By the decision dated 14.11.2019 with the file number 2019/810 K. of Antalya 4th Administrative Court in the case numbered 2019/416 E., it was ruled that the decision stating that an Environmental Impact Assessment is not Required was not lawful, and the annulment of the disputed action was decided, and the decision was finalized.

On 22.10.2018, with the file number 2018/935 E. of Antalya 4th Administrative Court, a lawsuit was filed against the Antalya Metropolitan Municipality for the annulment of the construction permit and suspension of its execution. In this lawsuit, a decision to suspend execution was made on 12.07.2019, and by the decision numbered 2019/809 K. of Antalya 4th Administrative Court dated 14.11.2019, the annulment of the construction permit was decided, and this decision was also finalized.

Subsequently, Rönesans Real Estate Investment Inc., the rights holder, has made necessary preparations and project revisions to fulfill its contractual obligations within the framework of these decisions to obtain a positive Environmental Impact Assessment report, and it is currently known that the Environmental Impact Assessment process is ongoing. It is learned that after obtaining the positive Environmental Impact Assessment report, the construction permit will be re-obtained based on the information in the revoked permit. In the scope of the valuation work, in accordance with the documents obtained from the customer, the valuation was carried out on the assumption that the contract is still in force in accordance with the 39. article of the easement specification and that there will be no changes in the project areas based on the building license.

SECTION 7

ANALYSIS OF THE APPROACHES USED IN THE APPRAISAL

Analysis of the Approaches Used in the Appraisal

7.1 Appraisal Approaches

There are three different valuation approaches within the scope of International Valuation Standards. These approaches are "Sales Comparison Approach", "Cost Approach" and "Income Approach" respectively. The definitions of all three approaches included in International Valuation Standards are given below.

Market Approach

The sales comparison approach ensures that the indicative value is comparatively determined with the same or the similar assets of the asset subject to appraisal, which have price information.

The first step to be taken is to consider the price of the transactions that have occurred recently in the market regarding the same or similar assets. If a limited number of transactions have occurred, then it would be appropriate to consider the prices traded or offered for the similar or the same assets provided that the validity of such information is determined and analyzed critically. In order to reflect the differences between the actual transaction conditions and all assumptions made in the appraisal, it may be necessary to make corrections on the price information obtained from other transactions. Furthermore, there may be also differences between the asset that is valued and the assets of other transactions in terms of legal, economic and physical aspects.

Cost Approach

The cost approach ensures that the indicative value is determined by the implementation of an economic principle that a buyer will not pay more than the cost of an acquisition of another asset having the equal benefit to him for an asset whether obtained by purchasing or construction.

This approach is based on the principle that the price to be paid by a buyer in the market for the asset being valued will not be more than the cost of an equal asset whether by purchasing or construction unless the factors such as time, unsuitability, the risk that cause unnecessary burden are concerned. Because of being worn and outdated, the attractiveness of the assets that are being valued is generally lower than the alternatives to be purchased or built. Where this is the case, it may be necessary to adjust the cost of alternative asset depending on the value basis that has to be used.

Income Approach

Different methods are used to determine the value under the main heading of Income approach; the common characteristic of all of them that the value is based on actual income de facto obtained by the right owner or estimated incomes to be obtained.

The income for an investment property may be in the way of lease, it may also be a hypothetical lease (or saved rent) based on the cost that the property owner bears for renting an equivalent space in the building used by its owner. The defined cash flows are then used for valuation by the capitalization process. The income streams which are expected to remain fixed can be capitalized using a single multiplier that is often referred as the rate of capitalization. This figure represents the return or "yield" for the investor that is expected to reflect the time cost and ownership risks and revenues, and theoretical return for the property owner using the property himself.

7.2 Value Definitions

"Market Value" has been appraised as the concluding value of the report in the subject appraisal work, and the value definition according to International Valuation Standards is as follows.

Market Value

In case of a real property is transferred between a buyer and a seller, on a certain date, it is the most probable, cash transfer value of the property determined by the conditions of providing the market conditions required by the sales, the willingness of the parties and both parties being informed of all cases related to the real property.

7.3 Değerlemede Kullanılan Yaklaşımların Analizi ve Bu Yaklaşımların Seçilme Nedenleri

In this appraisal study, since the project to be developed on the land is appraised according to the preliminary permit agreement dated 29.11.2017, the "Income Approach" has been used.

In the scope of the valuation work, in accordance with the documents obtained from the customer, the valuation was carried out on the assumption that the contract is still in force in accordance with the 39. article of the easement specification and that there will be no changes in the project areas based on the building license.

The real properties subject to valuation is under the ownership of Antalya Metropolitan Municipality, and value appraisal for the real properties has not been made with the "Market Approach" and "Cost Approach", since the value is being appraised for the project that will be developed on the plot according to the preliminary authorization contract dated 29.11.2017.

Analysis of current economic conditions, real estate market, current trends and underlying data and their effects on the value of real estate have been evaluated within the scope of each approach. The current situation of the sectors in the region where the subject real estate is located, current economic conditions and market analysis were made and the positive / negative effects of these data on the real estate were determined. The identified impacts were taken into account in the valuation and were reflected in the value of the property.

Income Approach

Value appraisal has been made using the lease equivalent investigation data of the real property under appraisal and the discounted cash flow method, which is a revenue discounting approach method.

Discounted Cash Flow Method

In the income approach, the valuation of the existing project, which has an architectural project and license, is carried out. The income performance of the immovable property subject to the valuation in the previous periods has been analyzed and the cash flows in the future years have been projected according to this performance.

Discount Rate Calculation

It is considered necessary that the discount rate used to discount estimated cash flows reflects both the time value of money and the risks associated with the type of cash flows and future activities of the asset. While the discount rate was used in the valuation study, the summation method was deemed appropriate. While calculating the discount rate in line with International Valuation Standards;

- Risk related to projections of cash flows used,
- Type of asset being valued,
- Rates implicit in market transactions,
- The geographical location of the asset and/or the location of the markets in which it will be traded,
- Life/maturity of the asset and consistency of inputs,

- Type of cash flows used,
- The applied value principles have been taken into account.

With the addition method, the discount rate is calculated based on the sum of the risk-free interest rate and the risk premium. As the risk-free interest rate, the last 5-year average of the 10-year TL-based bond was taken into account, in line with the duration of the cash flow. Risk premium has been determined throughout the projection period, taking into account the market in which the subject real estate is located and the risk of the real estate. According to this;

Risk-Free Return Ratio: %19,51

Risk Permium: %2,99

Reduction Ratio: %22,50 it was calculated as.

8.8 Harmonization of Different Valuation Methods and Analysis Results and Explanation of the Methods and Reasons Followed for this Purpose

In the mentioned valuation study, income approach methods, specifically the discounted cash flow method, have been used to determine the property's value. In the evaluations made, the buying rate was taken as basis for conversions from foreign currencies to TL, and the selling rate was taken as basis for conversions from TL to foreign currencies.

Approach	π	EUR
Income Approach	1.019.560.000	27.700.000

In this appraisal study, since the project to be developed on the land is appraised according to the preliminary permit agreement dated 29.11.2017, the "Income Approach" has been used.

In the scope of the valuation work, in accordance with the documents obtained from the customer, the valuation was carried out on the assumption that the contract is still in force in accordance with the 39. article of the easement specification and that there will be no changes in the project areas based on the building license.

The real properties subject to valuation is under the ownership of Antalya Metropolitan Municipality, and value appraisal for the real properties has not been made with the "Market Approach" and "Cost Approach", since the value is being appraised for the project that will be developed on the plot according to the preliminary authorization contract dated 29.11.2017.

The value of the project has been calculated entirely as a result of assumptions related to the alternative scenarios specified in the scope of the report. It is certain that if any of these assumptions change, the values to be found will be different.

In this regard, the appraisal value has been determined as the market value calculated through the income approach. Cash sale prices were used as the basis for the final valuation.
